What will we do on a Youthworks
Mission Trip to the Crow Reservation?

This year's mission trip to the Crow American Indian Reservation in Montana will provide opportunities for students to do "a little of everything" as far as mission work! We will provide very needed home repairs, which may include projects like drywall, roofing, painting, building porches, etc as well as putting on a "Kids' Club" for the children on the reservation each day. Kids' Club is a little like Vacation Bible School, with games and crafts and rec & singing and skits and more. The week that we are there, we will lead that program for them. We will also have a rare opportunity to learn more about the culture of the Crow people—their traditions, their spirituality, their struggles, their trials and their triumphs. We will learn about Crow history and will participate in "de-briefing" and devotionals each night at different locations where we will interact and learn from members of the tribe. We will visit the site of the Battle of Little Bighorn and learn about this part of their history.

Where do we sleep and eat?

Youthworks partners with a variety of locations to provide lodging—we will be sleeping on air mattresses, likely in either a church or a school gym and will eat at our housing location and on our work sites, in some cases.

How do we get there?

We will be traveling in rented vans. We will stay overnight in a church on the way there and again on the way back.

What is the cost?
